BEWARE OF BRUSH AND FOREST FIRES

THESE BIRDS JUST LOVE FOREST FIRES.

1. Never burn brush or trash in windy weather.
2. Do not burn until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.
3. Rake a wide path or fire line, free from grass, logs, leaves or sticks, entirely around the area to be burned.
4. Burn against the wind. Burn down hill.
5. Have sufficient help and tools to immediately control fire if it should escape.
6. Before leaving the fire pour water on it and cover with a damp soil. Be sure it is out...dead out!
7. Carefully inspect the burned area the next morning.
8. When fires burn in broom sedge, nitrogen is lost... the very ingredient you pay for in fertilizer.
9. Fires in broom sedge destroy organic matter... a substance most of our soils need. Plow broom sedge under.
10. Fires... even light fires... destroy and injure the small forest trees; heavy fires kill large timber, burn homes, barns and live stock.
11. Fires in the springtime destroy the nests, eggs and young of the quail, turkey, rabbits and other game birds and animals.

HOW TO "SPEND" YOUR POINTS

Here's a way to spread your point "spending" as evenly as possible over the full month of March, according to the State OPA, so you won't run short toward the end of the month... divide March into four shopping periods. If the 48-points-per-person allotment is used evenly over these periods, the rate of spending in each period by families of from two to eight persons works out in 12-point multiples. For two in the family, spend 24 points per shopping period, for three, 36 points, four, 48, and so on.

Rationed Machinery Tagged for Counties

Manufacturers of farm machinery and equipment are being provided with distribution patterns under rationing order C, based upon the new equipment in stock as of the close of business October 31, 1942, plus new machinery the manufacturer is authorized to make under WPB Order L-170, according to instructions received by the state war board.

It is assumed that equipment will move through normal channels to dealers who serve the area to which the machinery is destined. If the manufacturer does not have established distribution channels he is expected to make arrangements through other outlets. Manufacturers are urged to supply the most adaptable size and types of equipment to areas served and arrange shipments so that seasonal requirements will be met.

Each manufacturer is required to tag each item before delivery to a dealer, indicating the state and county in which the item is to be sold. Upon receipt of the machinery the dealer sends a part of the tag to the farm machinery rationing committee in the county for which the item is to be sold for use. Upon receipt of the tag the committee will advise the farmer holding a purchase certificate of the availability of the equipment.

W. M. S. HELD GROUP MEETING

The W. M. S. of the Liberty Group held an all-day service at the Liberty Baptist Church Wednesday. In the morning a missionary study class was led by Mrs. H. F. Jones, "They Need Not Go Away," featuring home missions. At noon the 1943 officers of the Liberty Group were installed as follows: Mrs. H. Frederick Jones, group leader; Mrs. A. B. Stratton, recording secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Dan Moore, publicity; denomination chairman; Mrs. Leroy Beach, young people's leader; Mrs. W. J. LeGrand, literature chairmen and mission study chairman; Mrs. W. A. Drinkard, stewardship chairman; Miss Kate Jones, community missions chairman; Mrs. F. Jones closed with prayer for the officers installed.

After a delightful luncheon, Mrs. T. M. Trent gave a most interesting, inspired and informing program by observing the Annie W. Armstrong prayer calendar, which since the home mission offering was received. Thirty-six ladies were present. It was decided to have the annual meeting of the Liberty Group April 28 at Liberty Baptist Church. The group voted to send Mrs. Jones as a delegate to the Ladies' meeting to be held March 23-25.

On account of the state meeting in Roanoke March 16, the regular monthly meeting will be held Wednesday, March 17. Business will be held at 2:30, with the program at 3. Mrs. Willie Carter will be program leader.

Make it DO for the DURATION

IT'S the exposed parts of any house that get the worst wear and tear from the elements. That's why they should be fixed up now if they are beginning to fail.

Take the front porch, for instance. It will probably mean more than ever next spring and summer with the gasoline cars buzzing off to movies and bridge parties in the country. So look it over now. Is the roof in good condition? Is the floor sound? Is the railing firm? Broken railings are not only dangerous, so is a rotted floor sightly and broken steps are especially dangerous, so they should be put into repair. Better first aid now for a broken step than fracture later for a broken leg. In making new steps, use skids about a quarter of an inch apart. Because these allow adequate drainage, they do not hold rot-inducing moisture. The slats should be painted on all four sides to protect the wood.

If the floor needs repainting, it should be repainted in warm, dry weather when the cracks are at their widest. The narrowest cracks can have linseed oil run into them, but cracks wide enough to be filled should be filled before the floor is painted. For this purpose plastic wood, white lead thinned with linseed oil or any commercial exterior crack filler can be used.

If the porch is one of the most exposed parts of the house, the porch roof is one of the most exposed parts of the porch. If this is leaky, it should be recovered with a fire-and-weather-resistant material such as asphalt shingles or roofing paper. Such a roof can be laid in a color to match the roof covering the rest of the house.

Even the porch furniture deserves special attention, particularly metal furniture which is no longer being produced. If this is gathering rust in the basement or garage, it should be thoroughly cleaned with a rust remover and given a fresh coat of protective paint.

Eggs by the Pound Instead of by Dozen

Trend Favors Both Buyer and Seller

A trend toward selling eggs by the pound instead of by the dozen is becoming evident in some sections of the country, and this is probable both to the producer and the consumer, in the opinion of Myrtle Murray, head of dairies specialist of the Texas A. and M. college extension service.

Under present marketing practices, the consumer pays as much for a dozen for extremely small eggs as for standard eggs which weigh two ounces each, or a pound and a half per dozen. Likewise, Miss Murray explains, the producer who markets standard size eggs or large ones receives no price advantages for a better product.

But the public and the trade accept the change from the dozen to pound basis, producers will have to obtain their premiums by offering high quality clean, infertile eggs correctly prepared for marketing.

An Indiana farmer hitches up his team of mules. There's plenty of use for a team these days.

This means that eggs should be gathered at least twice a day and kept in a clean wire basket until they are cool and ready for packing. They should then be graded as to size, putting the uniformly small eggs, medium (24 ounces to the dozen) and large ones in separate containers. They should also be candled, and sort out the defective eggs.

Eggs should always be packed with the pointed end down. If packing materials have been used previously, care should be taken to see that they are clean. Avoid wrapping eggs in newspapers.

Miss Murray recommends that eggs be marketed at least twice a week so that consumers can be assured of fresh produce.

Rabbits

California is the leader in rabbit production although no complete figures for the nation are available. It is known that in the Los Angeles trade area, 1,600,000 pounds of rabbit meat have been sold in one year. The U. S. Rabbit Experiment station is located at Fontana, Calif., where studies are being made in breeding, fur and wool production and marketing. Rabbit raising has thrived in the West because the mild climate permits open air hutches.

Most of the income is made by selling rabbits for meat. This compares favorably with other meats in protein. It has less fat and costs less per pound than expensive cuts of beef and lamb.

This country has imported an average of nearly 91,000,000 pounds of dressed rabbit pelts and it would seem that there might be a bright outlook for selling furs and pelts. Efficiency studies show, however, that meat is the more dependable outlet. Because of the cost of stock, it requires more money to raise rabbits than poultry.

California raises more Angora rabbits than any other state. Much rabbit wool is imported and some California people have obtained a better price per pound for wool when it was spun into yarn at home and then sold to department stores.

Minerals for Hogs

Feed proper minerals to hogs at all times. Market hogs make cheaper gains, breed sows raise more thrifty pigs, and healthier hogs are produced when minerals are used. By using a protein supplement, such as a mixture of equal parts of cottonseed, peanut, or soybean oil meal with tankage, or shrimp meal, farmers can grow out their pigs and fatten their hogs with about half as much corn or sweet potatoes as when these feeds are used alone.

Evergreen Personal Items

Evergreen, March 9.- Mrs. Wilson Paulett has three sons in the U. S. service, one in each division of the service.

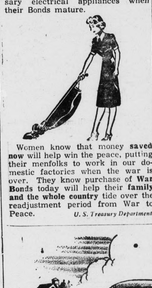
Miss Mydian Lee, of Virginia Beach and Mrs. R. T. Lee, of Richmond were week-end guests of Mrs. J. R. Conner.

James Roy Connor, of Camp Peary spent Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Clapp, of Roanoke are visiting their home people.

The Evergreen Baptist Church held a special service on Sunday morning, February 28, when a Service Flag was raised in honor of the eighteen young men who have gone from the church into the armed forces of our country. The Rev. A. C. Lawson was in charge of the program. He chose as text for his sermon, "In the name of our God we set up our banners." - Psalm 20:5. After the splendid address, the Service Flag was brought out by J. Mott Harvey and Elon O. Johnson, teachers of the Young Men's Bible Classes, who hung it at the back of the pulpit beneath the flags of the United States and the Christian Flag. As the pastor called the names of the boys on the honor roll, the families stood in recognition. In addition to the patriotic hymns sung by the church choir of Evergreen G. A.'s sang, "God Bless America and the Paulette quartett, composed of Miss Virginia, soprano, Miss Gwendolyn, alto, Ashby, tenor, and Burke, bass, with Jamie at the piano, sang, "I'll Pray For You."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS



Women at War today are saving for Women at Peace when the War is won. They are buying War Bonds as thrifty housewives, saving to buy those handy, convenient and necessary electrical appliances when their Bonds mature.

Women know that money saved now will help win the peace, putting their menfolks to work in our domestic factories when the war is over. They know purchase of War Bonds today will help their family and the whole country tide over the readjustment period from War to Peace.

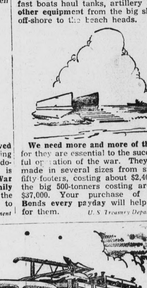
What You Buy With WAR BONDS



Down in the Solomons and on the African coasts the Crocodile Boat or tank lighter played a most important role in landing our invasion armies. These self-propelled, light, low-sea-line boats haul tanks, artillery and other equipment from the big ships off-shore to the beach heads.

We need more and more of them, for they are essential to the successful operation of the war. They are made in several sizes from small fifty-footers, costing about $2,400 to the big 500-tonners costing around $37,000. Your purchase of War Bonds every payday will help pay for them.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How do you feel about this idea of stopping 'em from selling liquor anywhere near army camps, Judge?"

"I was just talking about that with Will down at the barber shop about ten minutes ago. Tell you what I told him, Ned. I say it's up to the Army to decide. Why should we walk in and tell the Army how to do its job ...any more than I should tell you how to go about putting out a fire? And here's something that strikes me funny. All this worrying seems to be about the boys' conduct around the camps here in this country. You never hear a word of worrying about them drinking when they go abroad. Kind of queer, isn't it, Ned?"
